BEVINGTON and BANKING Re-printed by request of Stonelaw Local, U.F.A.

defeated ourselves and reduced our ability to pay. If the price of a bushel of wheat was $1.50, one bushel would cancel one year's interest on a $100 Victory Bond. If worth only $1 per bushel, it will take 1 1/2 bushels. Increased production always means lowering of prices. Therefore if our bonds are to be paid, one of three things must happen. The ability of the bond holder to consume must increase or prices of what he consumes must increase, or his income from interest must be brought down to a point where his ability to consume value in labor products. Labor products are the only things with which the people can pay. Money is not pay. It is only a promise to pay. All bank notes in circulation are liabilities of the bank; the more of their liabilities in circulation, the greater their income. They are the only institutions ever devised by the mind of man that make fortunes out of their debts.

For years past the U.F.A. and kindred associations throughout Canada have placed themselves on record as being in favor of public ownership of essentially public service utilities. You have just heard Mr. Crozier in his address express his opinion on public ownership of all those public service institutions that by their nature are natural monopolies. Can you imagine a superior that is inherently a more natural monopoly than the issuing and circulating of a national medium of exchange?

We speak of public ownership in our national railways. Does public ownership exist in them? Let us see. When the government took over the C.N.R. there was in existence an indebtedness, bonded and otherwise, against the road in an amount greater than the total value of the road. The government paid all this and gave McKenna and company 10 millions for their goodwill. The government had no money. Governments never have. Therefore it was necessary to sell the public credit in the form of bonds to show to whom the right to issue credit in the form of money had been given in bank charters. The government created a new set of bondholders to retire the claims of an old set of bondholders, and we, the people, got a debt of 10 million dollars more to pay. Is this public ownership or private ownership? Do the bondholders own the road or do the people own it?

This is private ownership with public operation. Public ownership cannot be established in any enterprise until public ownership has first been established in our money system. This can be done by establishing a national banking system and retaining in that the sovereign right to issue public credit in the form of legal tender money instead of issuing public credit in the form of interest-bearing bonds and selling them to the money trust for bank credit as is done at present.

It has been said, and truly, that we have in Canada, the best banking system in the world, and it is—for the bankers.

Money comes into existence by and with the consent of the parliament and the system was created for the purpose of providing the people with debt-paying instruments, but having been legislated into the hands of private interests to issue, circulate, control and monopolize, it has become a gigantic debt-building instrument. Now, friends, I will endeavor to point out with a few examples, not what this system does for you, but what it does to you. How it affects you as a nation, as a community, and as an individual.

If we were an uncivilized or savage people, unenumbered by a financial system, and had a war to fight for the preservation of our territory and tribal rights, we would likely divide ourselves into two classes, putting the strong and able young men in one class as warriors, the old men, the very young men, the women and children in another class as producers. The warriors would proceed to do the fighting, the producers would proceed to produce the necessities of life, and the munitions of war, and so long as production kept pace with consumption the war could go on to its conclusion, and when the warriors came home they would take up again peaceful pursuits, and there would be no debt. Now, how did we, a highly civilized people, conduct ourselves in our late great war? We divided ourselves into two main classes, called soldiers and civilians, and one small group called financiers.

Now, our soldiers fought a great fight, and a successful fight. Our producers produced in abundance and to spare so much as that after paying for all the goods bought from other people with goods, we still had a large amount to sell to others as is indicated by our trade balance during the war period. Yet, when our soldiers returned, we find that we owe to this small group who neither fought nor produced an amount of money equal to the value of all goods consumed, used or destroyed by our soldiers during the war, together with the soldiers' pay. We owe them this amount just the same as if we had engaged them to do all the fighting and all the producing, and we sat in the shade and watched the show. How did this happen? I leave this with you as a conundrum. Time will not permit me to develop this conundrum. How it affects you as a community. You have all no doubt had the experience of organizing a school district and building a school house. I do not know how you got about it on the whole. This is the question, do it in the north country. We organize a district and elect a board of trustees. The board go to a bank and sell the collective credit in the form of debentures for enough money to build the school house. Then they come back home and engage Tom Brown to get some logs. Bill Jones to go to the sawmill and bring lumber, engage Frank Smith to get some cement from the cement plant, some sand and stone from the gravel pit and make a foundation. Then we get Ole Yonson with his kit of tools to frame up the building and the job is done. We had all the material, labor, and mechanical skill necessary right in our own district to build a school. Yet when we got through building we find that we owe the bank as much money as if they had sold the school house down there ready made.

What did we get from the bank? The right to use our own credit. What did we do for the bank? Turned our own property into an interest-bearing asset for them. Why? Because our government has legislated a monopoly of public credit into the hands of the banks. How does this system affect you individually? When you wish to use some money, you go to the bank and arrange a loan. You hand them your note and they hand you a check book; you walk out well satisfied. Immediately there appears in the ledger of that bank an entry opposite your name of a sum of money to your credit. Did you deposit anything? Yes. Your credit, and you proceed to check it out and pay the banker 5 per centum for the use of what is already your own. But someone will say the banker placed his money to your credit and charged you for that. Not so; you got nothing of his. You, through your government, gave him the privilege of printing money on paper at a cost of about 4 cents a thousand dollars worth. He places to your credit this paper money, and then charges you for the use of the privilege you have bestowed upon him.

Now, friends, I have only scratched the surface of this great subject, but time will not permit further discussion. (Mr. Tregeur here presented to the speaker a one dollar note and asked what it is and where it came from?) Answer: This is a Dominion government one dollar bill; it is circulating public credit based upon and redeemable in all the assets of the Dominion of Canada; it is legal tender for all debts in the Dominion, and is redemption money for bank notes; it came from a public printing press. In the other hand I have a $100 Bank of Commerce note; it also came from a printing press, a private press. It is circulating bank credit based upon and redeemable in the assets of the bank; it is legal tender, but is not redemption money. These notes have a mysterious attraction for one another, and always get together in a bank after being printed and get into circulation in the same way, always bearing interest to the bank. Mr. Noble, Chairman, asked about the double liability clause?

Answer: There is a clause in the act which holds the shareholders liable for an additional amount equal to the par value of their shares in any bank. However, there is nothing in the act which provides that a shareholder shall have any property in his name at the time needed in case the bank went broke. We have had but few bank failures in Canada. Yet we have had some. I have been able to find but one instance where the double liability was found collectable. This was a case where the shareholder had written his name to his son-in-law, and then died just at the time the bank went broke, the son-in-law not having time to get from under.

Question: What is gold, and what part does it play?

Answer: Gold is a commodity, the product of labor. I at one time dug gold here on the Athabasca river. We brought it up to the bank and exchanged it for bank notes. The bank in turn deposited it in the central gold reserve, and then are permitted under the act to issue and circulate an amount of their notes equal to the value of their deposits in gold reserve. Gold is international exchange, as is wheat or any other labor product. The difference being that price of gold has been fixed by law at $22 per ounce of standard weight and fineness. The dollar being the measure of value, not the gold.

Other speakers expressing the resolution carried by the Whitecourt and H. C. Smith of Vermilion. The resolution carried unanimously.

Taxation in Canada Third Article.

The more exhaustively any study is made of the whole question of taxation in Canada, the stronger does the view prevail that under existing circumstances two main reforms are imperative. In the first place, radical changes should be effected in the methods now employed in the imposition and collection of the Income Tax in order that a simple, inexpensive and practical system be substituted for the present elaborate, expensive and highly confusing one.

Secondly, and even more important in its effects on business and as a means of raising the large revenues now required without imposing too great a burden on anyone, and to bring about that equality of treatment which is essential in order to remove existing feelings of bitterness against all taxation because of so many evidences of injustice, one uniform tax should be imposed and present levies on business removed.

Is there one simple, uniform method that can be applied which will operate with absolute fairness all round and at the same time be capable of producing a large revenue, easily collectible and at a minimum of expense both to the Government and the taxpayer?

We believe there is, and that it is to be found in a fixed uniform tax on the turnover in all lines of business. The introduction of such a tax is growing in favor in the United States, and to the extent that it has been applied in Canada, it is operating satisfactorily and with a minimum of expense and friction.

The plan proposed is extremely simple. It is that everybody engaged in business, large or small, manufacturing, wholesale, jobbing, retail, lawyers, doctors and professional men generally, transportation and financial corporations—in a word, everybody who renders service to the public and receives pay for the same shall pay a small tax on the gross turnover of the business in which they are engaged.

At the end of each month everyone who had made sales of any kind whatever would figure up the total amount of such sales, make out a cheque for 1 per cent. of the amount, and forward it to the Government. All that would be necessary would be for the Government department to compile a complete list of all persons engaged in business in Canada, and check up that list monthly, or quarterly, to see that proper remittances of the tax were being made. If there is one thing a man in business cannot well hide it is the volume of his turnover. Profits may be hidden, expenses may be inflated, camouflage may be indulged in in many ways, but the gross turnover of a business stands out clear and distinct. At the end of the calendar year, the Government might require that an annual statement of turnover—that is of gross sales—be submitted.

One per cent. on the turnover of all business in Canada would unquestionably produce an enormous revenue, possibly more than would be required. One-half of one per cent. might be sufficient. But whatever the amount of the tax it would be levied fairly and equitably on everybody, and there would be no necessity for the elaborate system now prevailing, nor for imposing on business the obligation and expense inseparable from the complicated system of returns and reports now demanded by the Finance Department.

Such a tax would be the essence of simplicity; it could not fail to be understood and easily grasped; it would apply to one and all alike, whereas present systems are distressingly complicated and manifestly unfair in their application.

The collection of the tax would be automatic and undisturbing, offering a sharp contrast to the present disturbing and highly expensive system. The distribution of the burden of taxation would be just, falling like the rain. Those who consume the most and spend most would pay the most taxes, because, in the final analysis, all taxes are paid by the ultimate consumer and purchaser.

The revenue derived by the Government would not be dependent upon fluctuating periods of prosperity and depression in business, as it is when based on profits. The purchases of the people will, of course, vary somewhat, but the variation is not so great as to seriously affect the gross sales upon which the tax would be levied.

Any tax will increase prices to some extent, but a small tax on gross turnover will operate to enhance prices to a lesser degree than do existing forms of taxation now imposed on the business of the country.

Present extravagant methods in business would no longer be encouraged by the desire to spend what would otherwise become profits subject to taxation. Old-fashioned business economy and enterprise would again come to the front and thrive. The old incentive to enterprise and expansion would return.

And because the tax load would be spread equally over the whole population, it would be accepted without murmur and that resentment and bitterness of feeling which now is so prevalent because of a sense of injustice that while now one man pays, another escapes scot free; because while the honest and patriotic man pays the tax, the fastidious due from him, the dishonest man gets off lightly through his dishonesty.

Agricultural Exports

Professor Arkell Urges Farmers to Regain Lost Ground.

Professor H. S. Arkell, Dominion livestock commissioner, addressing the agricultural section of the chamber of commerce at Hamilton, urged upon the farmers the necessity of defeating their competitors in the export market and deplored the fact that Canada had lost seriously in its export trade since the war. Other countries were now supplying the agricultural products which Canada should be supplying, Commissioner Arkell said. "Canada's prosperity depends upon its ability to increase its export trade in agricultural products," he said.

RHEUMATIC PAINS HAVE DISAPPEARED

As a Result of Treating the Trouble Through the Blood.

The chief symptom of rheumatism is pain. The most successful treatment is the one that is the most quickly effective and banishes the pain. Many rheumatic people suffer pains that could be avoided by building up the blood, when chronic rheumatism with this blood it cannot be corrected until the blood is built up.

Mr. Ed. Haly, Main-De-Sac, N.S., suffered from rheumatism for years, but was more fortunate than many victims of the disease for he found a remedy that so built up his entire system that he is now free from rheumatism. Mr. Haly says: "I was taken down with rheumatism, and at times was under the treatment of several of the best doctors in Cape Breton, but they held out no hope for my recovery from the trouble. I was confined to bed for three years and a helpless cripple from the pills I was first brought to bed from the pills was an improved appetite, and then I began to feel stronger, and was finally able to get out of bed and go about on crutches. I continued taking the pills for months, slowly but surely getting new strength, and finally I was able to lay the crutches aside. I will always be lame, as the result of my long stay in bed my left leg has shortened somewhat, but otherwise I am feeling fine and able to do my work as Fishery Overseer. I may add that when the rheumatism came on I weighed 140 pounds, and when I began going about on crutches I only weighed 60 pounds, and now I am at normal weight. There are many here who know and can vouch for the truth of these statements." You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine, by mail, post paid, at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

An Easter Message

It is no mere accidental occurrence which brings the two great Christian festivals at their respective seasons. The anniversary of the birth of the Christ-child immediately follows the winter solstice which marks the turning point of the season toward Spring—emblematic surely of the dawning of a brighter day—and the season commemorative of the Saviour's resurrection immediately succeeds the vernal equinox, which marks the recurrence of life and of the coming of renewed activities—emblematic certainly of the wondrous work accomplished by the death and resurrection of the Lord. The Easter time commemorates the birth of the Christian Church even as the Christmas season does the birth of its Founder. Unless there had been a Resurrection, and a birth in the souls of the disciples of an unquestioning faith that the crucified Master was gloriously triumphant over death there would never have been a Christian Religion! It was in the glory of that first Easter-tide, and in the subsequent benediction of the Spirit, that the apostolic band found inspiration and impulse to great tasks, and to succeed wonderfully in their performance. This great episode in the Master's life has ever formed the source of unceasing encouragement and cheer in the lives of all His servants giving present comfort, a forward look, and the assurance of greater happiness yet to be. It is the triumph of Easter-tide which vindicates the indestructible supremacy of righteousness—ensures the establishment of the Christ Brotherhood and, with the rejoicing born of that season reigning supreme in all her activities, the Christian Church can rise superior to all her enemies and would be destroyers resting assured in the fact that, since these things have not happened in vain they fore shadow the enthronement of the Christ and the establishment of His Kingdom.

May it be ours, this Easter-tide to glimpse somewhat of the sorrow, gloom, disappointment and unhappiness which the first Easter season dispelled and experience anew the joy and glad-flowing from a knowledge of what it means to us as individuals.

"I order go back home jest for some things I left as I should have," he said craftily. He flashed a look from one to the other of the men, then his gaze fell. "I'd sorter like company on account of the wolves. I ain't sayin' as I'd go along with Hallibut, 'cause I know too much fer that. But I could feller him like an' keep close an' he'd be company fer me without knowin' it."

He settled lower in his chair, and Watson spoke.

"You will make tracks as fast as God'll let you out this country, and if you get away safe it's pike to you deserve. A pretty pickle you've got us in. Now, then, swear you'll get for the States and never show your face in these parts again, or down there in that hole you stay until you can't tell anything you know. See?"

Watson took a roll of greenbacks from his pocket and held it up.

"When you're ready to swear that you never heard Smythe and never give anything, and that you will go where we want you to go—it's yours."

Amos glared up and opened his mouth as though to voice a protest, but at sight of the money settled back trembling.

"Be you goin' to give me the money as you promised?" he asked, looking at Smythe and pointing to the pile.

"As soon as you confess that you were lying when you said I hinted anything to you."

"Course I was lyin'," said Amos with a leer. "You never told me 't do nuthin'. You hear me Watson, he cried, 'Smythe that never told me what I said he did; I were lyin'."

"Heaven forgive you, as I do," murmured Smythe.

"Gimme the money," cried Amos. "I promise to get across the border right smart."

"I think," said Smythe, taking the greenbacks from Watson's hand and counting them slowly, "I think we had better give you the money, Amos—all but the sixty dollars coming to me for three months' board, and allow you to go to hiding in the cellar again. When the dear Colonel comes, which I am sure he will very soon now, you will wait until he has left for Bushwhacker's Place, then you will bid good-by to this place forever. No one will miss you, Amos, because you have no friends—but that is your own fault. You will always have a troubled conscience for a companion, but that is also your own fault. Remember, if you are caught—"

Mr. Smythe slipped his long fingers about his thin neck and winked his watery eyes.

"If you are caught, it's all up with you, Amos."

W. N. U. 1360

Broderbrook arose, his gaunt face twitching.

"Gimme another drink and I'll go down in a hole again," he said hoarsely. "You can tell me arter Hallibut has been here and gone. I Starter get away inter the States. You'll let me have a rifle, won't you, men? he begged. 'I'm scart of the wolves—they've been bad this winter—'"

Watson wheeled upon him. "You swear you won't shoot anybody," he said.

"Haven't I enough 't answer fer?" groaned the wretch.

"All right, then, you can have the rifle."

Then the trap-door fell, and Watson, resuming his seat by the table, looked at Smythe.

"What are we going to do?" he asked.

Smythe shivered and glanced about him.

"You haven't anything to hold you here, have you?" asked Watson. This place is mortgaged for all it's worth—and you owe for everything in the store, don't you?"

"Yes."

"Well?"

"I think we will not tempt Providence by remaining much longer," said Smythe. "We'll fit to some far-off land and begin life anew."

"And it won't be a partnership affair, either," said Watson.

CHAPTER XXVIII.

A Clear Trail.

Colonel Hallibut sat before the fire smoking and dreaming. The monotonous winter had proven drear enough for him, accustomed as he was to out-of-doors exercise, and now the splash of rain upon the roof fell on his ears like the tinkle of music. Every morning for three months the Colonel had told himself that he would visit those outlaws as soon as the trail was clear, and demand that the man who burned his schooner give himself up. But for three months the trail remained choked and the frost promised death to anyone venturing any distance from shelter. However, spring would now soon come bounding in, so the big man nursed his wrath and said, "To-morrow."

During the long waiting-time he walked between his house and stable, or strolled among his dogs with scolding voice. Dick, the man-of-all-work, kept out of his master's way as much as possible, but sometimes the Colonel would come into the big room and sit before him while he unburdened his mind.

Those Bushwhackers have dared to burn my school and have threatened to kill me," he would say. "I think of it—threatened to kill me! I wonder if the idiots have an ounce of sense or honor among them. They claim they have their own laws, but we'll show them that their laws don't go very far when it comes to firing men's property. Here was I, ready to give in to them were in the right about wanting to let their timber."

I was fool enough to let myself be influenced by sentimentality. I was fool enough to think them a simple nature-loving people who were attached to their environment. Now I find them a low, lawless band of cut-throats, capable of any crime. That Big McTavish, their ringleader, is bad enough, but he has a son who will stop at nothing, I understand. I have no doubt that it was he set fire to my boat."

At such times Dick would listen attentively and vaguely, no remark. Experience had taught him that silence was golden. The Colonel would shake his head, relight his pipe, and go on.

"I blame myself a whole lot for not going among the people and finding out just what they were, before allowing anybody else to run into danger. I know they never did like me on account of my homeliness. They claim I slaughtered the deer and fox, and I thought it policy to keep out of their way. I have nothing in common with those people. When I naturally thought that Watson and Smythe could deal better with them than I could of them. You know how they've succeeded. Watson has been nearly killed and has been robbed of six hundred dollars. At least he says so. Well, that you sumpbuck, why don't you say something?"

Dick would grin foolishly and shake his head.

"I'm thinkin', sir, as I don't know howthin' it is," he would remark. "I like 't ear you talk about what you know to be a fact, sir, an' beggin' your pardon, prefer 't listen, sir."

"Lord!" the Colonel would murmur, "it's awful to have only a thick-skulled Englishman to pour out my troubles to. But I must talk to somebody. Your mother, had, is a good woman, with more brains in one bump than you have in your whole cranium. But she's so deaf I'm afraid I'll bite her ear off trying to make her hear me. Then, too, she has a nice way with her of thinking out loud. Of course, she can't hear herself, but I can hear her, and when her thoughts turn to me I tell you I hear a lot that I would rather not hear. 'Rough on the surface, but a good man at heart, God bless him.' That's the kind of bonquet I get from your mother, Dick, whenever I open up and tell her what I intend to do with those Bushwhackers. 'He wouldn't hurt a baby, the kind gentleman. He's a Halibut, every inch of him, and I carried him about when he was a baby.'

MOTHERS!

Careful mothers always keep Zam-Buk on hand for their children's injuries—it ends pain so quickly and prevents any possibility of festering. Best for cuts, burns, scalds, bruises, ringworm, scalp sores, eczema and teething sores. All dealers like box.

Zam-Buk

That's the kind of rubbish I get when she's in the room. By George! if she wasn't an old family servant I'd fire her and I'd fire you, too, you good-for-nothing, you. Why, fellow, just you watch those dogs get down and crawl when I speak to 'em. Does that look as though I was a kind-hearted gentleman? Does it?—answer me, sir."

"It do not, sir. You surely are 'ell, sir, yes sir."

"Only sensible remark you have made since this cursed winter set in. Yes, I'm a rough 'un, I guess. I'm a match for that big hairy McTavish, or any of them, eh?"

"You are, sir."

"And you think they'll find it out—you do, don't you?"

"They'll find they have 't deal with a starter, sir. They'll wish 't heavens would fall an' cover 'em, sir, I'm thinkin'."

Dick would answer solemnly and the Colonel would slap him on the back and tell him that there was some hope for him yet.

Very often the big man would prefer to be alone, and there in his great chair he would sit listening to the wind moaning through the bare trees. Very often his thought would stray away back to the far-away days when he roamed the hills and valleys of the land where he had held and lost his happiness. And as he dreamed, his head would bend lower on his breast and his hand would unconsciously tighten on the arm of his chair.

And after his dream he would awaken slowly; and, sighing, arise and stand before the portrait on the wall. All men have their little flower-gardens of memory—Colonel Hallibut's lay away back among the far hills.

"If she only had not gone," he would murmur. "If she only had not gone, or if only I had gone with her. Dear little Phoebe, my heart gets hungry for you, and now I can only go along the old paths in fancy, girl."

And the pictured face would grow wistful and he would whisper:

"Th' part you knew and owned of me is all right, girl. I'm not such a bad chap; I'm a big bluff, just a big bluff I remember, dear, even though the joy of memory is painful. Glimpses are all I can stand, my little sister."

An Engraving Wonder

Lord's Prayer on Head of Ordinary Steel Pin.

J. O. Lowder has on display at his shooting gallery in Newburn, N.C., an ordinary steel pin on the head of which is engraved the Lord's Prayer. The engraving is the work of C. H. Baker, of Spokane, Wash., and the job required three years to complete, according to Mr. Lowder. There are 65 words, 254 letters and 19 punctuation marks on the pin head, and each is so perfectly formed that beneath a magnifying glass they stand out clearly and can be read with ease.

From the Diary of A Hudson's Bay Clerk in the Seventies

CHASE OF A GRIZZLY BEAR—LOVE PHILTRES.

By O-G-E-MAS-ES (Little Clerk).

(Copyrighted)

In a former article entitled Swan River to York Factory I had described the picturesque situation of Shoal River House at the north end of Swan Lake, the Swan River emptying into the south side of the lake. Here at the mouth of the river was a small settlement of half-breeds and Indians. It was the summer of 1874 and Mr. Angus MacBeth whom I had succeeded in charge of the post, had advanced some Indians rather heavily. These men were living at Duck Bay on Lake Winnipegosis and he did not see them before his departure, which was hurried. MacBeth had expressed on me before leaving about the importance of collecting these debts if at all possible, as there was an ugly rumor current in H. B. C. circles that postmasters were to be made responsible for outstanding accounts.

Being very busy getting the brigade of eight boats off to York, and then having other matters to attend to, it was finally well on in July before I was able to make the trip. There were no available men at the post, except my cook, Murdo, and after impressing on him to be extra careful of the company's property in my absence, I took my gun and bedding with some provisions and paddled over to the mouth of Swan River. Here I was fortunate in securing a very dark Indian, known as Black Ba'tese, who knew the country, but was a little lame, which did not matter as there was no particular rush. We left my small bark and took his double canoe, paddled across to the east side of the lake, cached our canoe, made up two small packs of bedding and provisions and started across what was called a summer portage, but a faint trail only showed in places. Late that evening we reached the shores of Winnipegosis and after firing a few shots to which there was no response, we made a thorough search and finally found an old canoe, which after the gun was patched a bit, would, Ba'tese thought, take us to the Indian camps. It was a leaky craft and I was kept busy between baling and paddling, but we made our destination all right and found the Indians at home. They did not look too well pleased at my appearance, for no doubt they thought with MacBeth leaving the debts might be forgotten. They were, however, hospitable enough, and we were guests of the headman whose name was A-ta-pis-ka-what. I noticed a smile on Ba'tese's face while dinner was being cooked, and in a hoarse whisper he asked me, "You like dog, you?" "Dog, what do you mean? Good heavens, no!" "Well," was his grinning reply, "that is what we are going to have for dinner. Ba'tese was right, and in a short time we received bountiful helpings of what I must say looked like very nice meat, and gathering up courage I tasted it, and there was nothing wrong about that. Still, there was the idea, so I simply toyed with my share. Our host, noticing that I was not enjoying my dinner spoke to one of the girls, who shortly entered the tepee and placed beside us a splendid dish of ripe raspberries, it being berry season. But the vessel that they were in fascinated me, and I gazed and gazed at it. White, with yellow stripes, handle and all, the kind of china that is generally kept under the bed. Ba'tese, smiling again, whispered: "It is all right and has only been used for cooking; not what you think, and with that my suspicions were relieved and I made a hearty meal off the berries.

After our repast with all its surprises I went fully into the question of trade. The amount due the company was some £86, and to my surprise and delight nearly the whole amount was put up in furs. Bear skins, beaver, otter, mink; fisher and marten all figured in it as well as musquash; prime furs all evidently killed in the spring. The fine furs alone made two bulky little packs, so we decided to leave the muskrats as they were heavy, with a promise that they would be brought in later to the post. They took us over to the mainland in the morning and, having arranged our packs (mine being a good deal the lightest) off we went for home. Ba'tese's lameness and his heavy pack now began to tell and I could make very much better time. The walking was good, the soil being sandy, and there was little under-brush. On coming over we had noted many bear tracks as Bruin no doubt had gathered in for a berry feast, for bears are proverbially fond of berries. In addition to the raspberries the ridges were covered in places with blueberry bushes. I would walk fast, leave Ba'tese a good distance, then slip my pack and feast on berries until he caught me up.

The day had clouded over and a light drizzle commenced to fall. I was carrying my gun and had some bullets handy in a buckskin shot pouch in case of sighting any big game. I was some distance ahead making for a ridge which promised blueberries, when I noted a huge bear track going in our direction and evidently very fresh. The tracks are very much like a human foot, only the heel is narrower and the claws make deeper indentations. Just as I reached the berries and was stooping down to gather a handful, something moved right ahead of me, and as I crouched and stared it resolved itself into a large grizzly colored bear with his hand quarters towards me and busy gathering in the berries with his forepaws. He was a monster all right and my hair stood up with excitement. Tugging at the strings of my shot pouch, I pulled them into a hard knot.

While I was waiting at them so as to slip a bullet in my gun, Ba'tese was getting closer and I cautiously raised my hand for him to stop and crouch. He did so, but, alas, as he stooped down, on the top of his pack was our copper tea kettle with two pots, and these rattled. Up jumped the bear and stood facing me. Such a brute, taller than I was, and no doubt the same one I had just tracked. It was too late to get my bullets, so without putting my gun to my shoulder, I pulled both barrels, aiming at his heart. Snap, snap, they went, the caps evidently damp with the rain, though I had the nipples covered. The bear wheeled and dashed off the ridge, and I, like a madcap, threw my gun down and ran after him. Ba'tese throwing off his pack ran after me shouting: "Stop, Ogemates, stop! Grey bear, bad bear!" For a hundred yards or so I ran him fairly even, but there was a thicket into this he bolted and that was the last we saw of him. On walking back to meet Ba'tese, who came up breathless, he poured out a torrent of words in broken English and French, mixed with Cree, the tenor of which I gathered to be something like this: "What a mad fool you are! Don't you know if you had caught the bear he would probably have killed you both," again repeating the words, "Bad bear, grey bear." I replied that I had never heard of a grey bear. "Oh," he said, "white men have another name for it, plenty on the plains and in the mountains." "Grizzly bear," I suggested. "Yes, that is the kind," and then I began to feel frightened.

Department of Agriculture Winning War Against Destructive Insects.

Ottawa.—In the discussion of the agriculture estimates in the House in committee of supply, Hon. Dr. Tolmie in defending the proposed vote of $180,000, an increase of $10,000 over 1920, for the enforcement of the destructive insect and pest act, said that the department was making remarkable headway in this regard. J. A. Maharg (Maple Creek) expressed the view that the salary scale paid to technical experts in the agricultural department was far below that paid corresponding employees in other departments. File clerks, he maintained, in some branches, received more than professors of agriculture. Seeming discrepancies between the salaries paid certain employees were cited by Opposition members. One of these was the case of a translator who received $4,500 per annum, while a junior translator received $1,550. Dr. Tolmie explained that this was the result of civil service classification clashing with a special act providing for an appointment.

Trade Agreement With Russia

Great Britain Signs Treaty With Russian Socialist Soviet Republic.

London.—The trade agreement under which commercial relations will be resumed by Great Britain and Russia and which were signed here, is essentially the same as the draft taken to Moscow by Leonid Krassin, Soviet minister of trade and commerce, in January the most important terms of which follow:

Each party agrees to refrain from hostile action or propaganda outside its borders against the other's insinuations or giving assistance or encouragement to any propaganda outside its own borders. The Soviet Government particularly agrees to refrain from any encouragement of Asiatic peoples to action against British interests, especially in Asia Minor, Persia, Afghanistan and India.

British subjects in Russia and Russians in Great Britain will be permitted to return to their homes if they so desire.

Each agrees not to impose any form of blockade against the other or any discrimination against trade not imposed on other foreign countries.

Ships in each other's harbors shall receive the treatment usually accorded foreign merchant ships by commercial nations.

No Further Work on Hudson's Bay Railway This Year

Present Time Not Propitious For Heavy Expenditures, and Work Must Wait Until Conditions Improve.

Ottawa.—There is to be no further work on the Hudson Bay Railway this year. On this Dr. Reid was emphatic in the House. J. A. Campbell (Nelson, Man.), had a resolution asking the government to resume work on the railway. Hon. T. A. Crerar supported the idea, but said the present time was not propitious for further heavy outlays.

Mr. Campbell declared that the government appeared to have forgotten its promises. After spending $23,000,000 on the road it appeared to have been abandoned.

There were important resources in the district traversed by the road, and the people of the west were demanding that it be completed. There seemed to be interests responsible for the government's present attitude and those interests were not showing their hands.

Financial stringency, Dr. Reid replied was the only reason for construction work on the railway having been held up. It was postponed only until conditions were more favorable. Dr. Reid reminded Mr. Campbell that when 310 miles of the line were operated with a bi-weekly train service, the revenue was not sufficient to pay the train crews wages. "If money were available this year," said Dr. Reid, "I would use it to extend some railway in the west to the territories which have been suffering so long, and give them relief, instead of continuing the Hudson Bay Railway at the present time."

Thomas Hay (Selkirk), moved in amendment that completion of the Hudson Bay line be carried out when conditions permitted and that the road be completed as soon as possible. This carried and debate on the resolution as amended was adjourned.

Germany Protests Occupation

Declares Versailles Treaty Gives Allies No Ground For Invasion.

Berlin.—In a protest to the League of Nations against the infliction of penalties, the German Government claims that the only provisions in the treaty affecting this question are Paragraph eighteen of appendix, two to part eight, and the concluding sections of Article 429 and Article 430. These, it is declared, do not admit of any fresh occupations of German soil beyond the territory west of the Rhine and the bridgeheads.

The German Government further contends that there has been no infringement of obligations justifying the infliction of the economic sanctions, and argues that the levy against German goods is in contradiction to the renunciation by the British, Italian and Belgian Governments of Paragraph 10 of the appendix to the treaty.

The League of Nations is requested to initiate mediation proceedings and to see that the forcible measures the Allies have undertaken be immediately stopped.

Tax On German Goods.

London.—The House of Commons, with the consent of the government decided that the German Reparations Bill, providing for a levy of 50 per cent. on the purchase price of imported German goods, shall not come into effect until March 31. The measure passed its second reading in the Commons.

Sloan's Liniment

(Pain's enemy)

He Knew.

A countryman was standing on a fish pier where the day's catch was being landed. Presently a sword-fish of monstrous size was hoisted up and the old fellow stared at it in wonder and amazement. He positively could not believe his senses, and when at last he recovered himself sufficiently to speak it was only to exclaim: "The man that caught that fish is a darn liar!"

Halifax, N. S.

Minard's Liniment Co., Ltd.
Gentlemen—I have used Minard's Liniment and have found it a good remedy. After the explosion I was pretty well shaken up, having quite a number of bruises and cuts, but thanks to Minard's Liniment I am my old self again. It has relieved my pains and bruises and gave me much relief. It is true to its name as the King of Pain. I first noticed the pain almost at once. I first noticed the ad in the Montreal Standard and decided to invest in a bottle for which I am not sorry, but can say with truth that I am thankful for it having done all it claimed to do and in my case much more, and a satisfied customer is the best ad. one can possibly find. That is my view of it and I think you will agree with me too.

Yours very truly,
(Signed) ALFRED BLAIN,

Halifax, N. S.

What a Good Man He Was.

In the book he has written for private distribution in an attempt to show that Great Britain was responsible for the war, former Emperor William of Germany throughout speaks always of himself as the third person. He paints William II. as a man who tried for thirty years to maintain peace in Europe, but says he was foiled by the "perfidious machinations of Great Britain, France and Russia."

For children who are thin, pale, anemic, under weight, nervous, restless, sleepless, Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is of the greatest benefit imaginable.

World Happenings Briefly Told

Soot is doing serious damage to London's big buildings by eating away the stone.

Mrs. C. Hamer-Jackson, a lady journalist of Edmonton, will be the first woman to visit Fort Norman officials.

Purchase of a direct cable to the United States has been announced by H. Pike Pease, British assistant postmaster-general.

Hon. W. R. Rollo, minister of labor, has brought a bill in the Ontario Legislature providing for the establishment of a fair rent court.

The British Empire producers' organizations are considering the holding of a conference in June of representatives of the Empire's agricultural societies.

Postal inspectors at Toledo, O., have announced the recovery of $200,000 worth of the loot in the million dollar Toledo post office robbery of February 17.

Between 800 and 1,000 employees of several Minneapolis flour mills are affected by a reduction in wages of 15 per cent. for skillful and 25 per cent. for unskilled labor.

For his rescue of two law students whose canoe capsized during a storm on Gull Lake last summer, James C. Gibson was presented with the Royal Canadian Humane Society's medal by Mr. Justice Stuart at Calgary.

An Admiralty memorandum on naval estimates referring to the navy policy for consideration at the coming Imperial conference says that the lines on which it is proposed to proceed are towards the development of Dominion navies.

It is only a matter of time until the man with the borrowing habit runs out of friends.

Epidemic of Dysentery

It affects many people more in winter than in summer—in the one case it is due to improper eating—in the other to congestion excited by cold. A small dose of good old Nervine repeated a couple of times usually removes the trouble very promptly. If there is pain, relief is almost immediate. For cramps, colic, stomach pains and the like, Nervine in sweetened water is certainly a wonder, 35c at all dealers.

Wasted Energy.

A woman invariably tells a small boy to hurry back when she sends him on an errand—but what's the use?

Certain morbid conditions must exist in the stomach and intestines to encourage worms, and they will exist as long as these morbid conditions permit them. To be rid of them and spare the child suffering, use Miller's Worm Powders. They will correct the digestive irregularities by destroying the worms, conditions favorable to worms will disappear, and the child will have no more suffering from that cause.

"Oh, very; he's in the band."
"What does he play?"
"He holds up the front of the drum when they march."

New Dancing Pavilion for Banff

Farmer Finds Coal Deposit

Valuable Deposits Discovered On Farm Near Adirill, Saskatchewan.

What may prove to be valuable coal deposits have been discovered by J. F. Irvin, on his farm near Adirill, Saskatchewan. It is said that Irvin has been offered a quarter of a million dollars for his mine. The discovery was made last fall when Irvin was digging for water. He came on the seam of coal when twenty-seven feet below the surface, after passing through a bed of quicksand. He kept the discovery secret until he had come of the coal tested. It is reported to be equal to any of the western coal for domestic purposes. Development operations will probably be commenced on an extensive scale this summer.

The Origin of Gall Stones

They are simply dried bile made up of Crystalline constituents of that fluid. Very common is this disease among merchants, clergymen, shop girls and those of sedentary habits. Prevention consists in maintaining correct action of the liver and bowels, and this is speedily accomplished by using Dr. Hamilton's Pills. No person using Dr. Hamilton's Pills will be subject to bilious fits. Sound digestion, good appetite, a clear color will evidence the health giving properties of Dr. Hamilton's Pills which are safest and best for general family use. ## A Knitted Suit For Sport Wear

By Marie Belmont.

White wool is used for the fashioning of this delightful sport suit. However, its stunning effect is really attained by the introduction of black wool. This is knitted with the white to form a handsome checker-board effect on the wide turnback tuxedo collar. This striking decoration also appears on the lower parts of the sleeves and the turnback cuffs. A band of the black and white checks is knitted into the skirt, which otherwise is quite plain. A white belt is placed about the waistline. With the sport shirt of heavy white crepe a big black tie is worn.

CHILDHOOD CONSTIPATION

Constipation is one of the most common ailments of childhood and the child suffering from it cannot thrive. To keep the children well the bowels must be kept regular and the stomach equal. To do this nothing can equal Baby's Own Tablets. They are a mild but thorough laxative; are absolutely safe and never fail to relieve constipation and indigestion; colds and simple fever. Concerning them Mrs. Jules Faugereau, Nominique, Que., writes: "My baby was terribly constipated and suffered day and night, I was advised to give him Baby's Own Tablets and from the first they helped him and now at the age of thirteen months he is a big healthy, happy boy." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Six Floating Mines Still Missing.

Of the fourteen floating mines believed to have been laid off the entrance of Halifax harbor in 1913 by a German submarine, eight have been picked up or otherwise accounted for. The last mine recovered was a "live" one, found off Sambro ledges by two fishermen. An officer from H.M.S. Dockyards, was notified and proceeded to Sambro, where he removed the explosives. The six mines still unaccounted for are believed to have floated to midocean or beyond.

Cheerfulness.

There is no greater every day virtue than cheerfulness. This quality in man among men is like sunshine to the day or gentle renewing moisture to parched herbs. The light of a cheerful face diffuses itself, and communicates the happy spirit that inspires it. The sourest temper must sweeten in the atmosphere of continuous good humor—Carlyle.

For Scalds and Burns.—Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil is a standard remedy for the prompt treatment of scalds and burns. Its healing power quickly soothes the pain and aids a speedy recovery from the injury. It is also an excellent remedy for all manner of cuts, bruises and sprains, as well as for relieving the pains arising from inflammation of various kinds. A bottle in the house and stable saves many a doctor's and veterinary fee.

Growing Old Gracefully

Are you growing old gracefully? Who wins in the race of life? Is it the man who is thin-blooded, weak, tired all the time?

An athlete trains for every race. A man is as strong as his blood and as old as his arteries. Make your blood redder, your health better by taking that old fashioned blood tonic—old fifty years ago and still "good" as gold—namely, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Sold by all druggists, or send 10c to Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel in Buffalo, N. Y., for a trial package.

CHATHAM, Ont.—"For many years I suffered with stomach trouble, and I tried many remedies, but they seemed to be a failure—I seemed to be getting worse instead of better. One day I came into possession of a bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and took it, and my stomach trouble seemed to be cured. I have great faith in this medicine, and hope any sufferer that reads this will give the medicine a trial. Once tried, you will never be without it."—O. TRUSS, D.D., 38 Duke St.

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

This is a Short Letter, But It Proves the Reliability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Bothwell, Ont.—"I was weak and run down, had no appetite and nervous."

The nurse who took care of me told me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and now I am getting strong. I recommend your medicine to my friends, and you may use my testimonial."—Mrs. W. J. Brady, R. R. 2, Bothwell, Ont.

The reason why Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is so successful in overcoming woman's ills is because it contains the tonic, strengthening properties of good old-fashioned roots and herbs, which act on the female organism. Women from all parts of the country are continually testifying to its strengthening, beneficial influence, and as it contains no narcotics or harmful drugs it is a safe medicine for women.

If you want specific advice write Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (consultants), Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read, and answered by women only.

The Church and Its Work By The Rev. W. S. Wickenden

Why the Lord Jesus died.

"Our Saviour Jesus Christ gave Himself for us that He might redeem us from all iniquity, and purify unto Himself a peculiar people, zealous of good works." Titus 2. 14.

The Lord Jesus "gave Himself" even unto "the death of the Cross" for sinners that He might "be of sin the double cure."

We sinners need a double cure. We need the removal of the guilt of sin. This the Lord Jesus did once for all, and cleansed His people "from all sin" by His death on the Cross.

We need also the removal of the power of sin. This also the Lord Jesus accomplishes by His Spirit's presence, and He has promised that His saved ones shall become "more than conquerors." They overcome evil with good.

"Though we pass through tribulation All will be well. Ours is such a full Salvation All, all is well."
